Origin and Terroir:

Malahi Amber (Orange) limited wine is a fruit of much pondering. Spitak Areni (Areni Blanc), the white counterpart to Sev Areni (Areni Noir) variety, deemed lost has been found. For a long time, this grape was mistakenly labeled as Krdi Khaghogh, but DNA tests have recently revealed that the grape Khrdi Khaghogh identified in Vayots Dzor in reality is the historically known indigenous variety Spitak Areni (Areni Blanc).

Vinification:

We fermented it on their skins and left undisturbed in large Karas (amphorae) jars for around six months. The result is pure golden apricot color, intense peach notes on the nose and overall deliciousness.
